Party season up and blazing

The one thing you gotta love about late fall is all the parties going on around town. We dropped in on a few.

The JetSet Crew hosted one of their themed events at the Stanley Park Pavilion. Too many tuxedos and daring dresses to count. Keep an eye out for their New Year's bash.

Over at Sugar and Sugar the brothers Sugar were hosting a benefit for the Vancouver Ballet Society. Lots of well-heeled bohemians enjoying the fashion show and dancing.

At the venerable Stanley was Vancity's Starry Night benefit in support of people living with AIDS.
